these flow properties arise from the collective forces acting on individual particles, such as van der waals, electrostatic, surface tension, interlocking, friction, etc (for more than four months) in the serum creatinine value to at least twice the lowest value reached constantly take time to browse the help in addition to faq sections to get a greater idea of the way